NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

We have here the first collected venture of a oung poet, whose verses we have frequently noticed is a graceful and easy flow in the poems riptive and the images, with few excepon from the fathers of English song. This is a and of a young writer. There is a vein of poetry in e following sonnet, which may be very successfully orked, with a little care and patience:

HAIL, ACTUMN! Monarch of the mellow year!
Steward of Nature's bountles, scattering round.
With liberal hands to us, poor almsmon, cheer.

Post thou appear to us, in vineyards now a wreath of faceless by on thy brow, and in thy hand a bunch of purple grapes' thresher, mottled o'er with dust of gold hat rises from his fall—a reaper old, eaide the sheaves askeep the secontide how With Pleaty, orphan of the Summer sweet Thy little Newhew sitting at the feet.

ther less credit than the former ones opy several stanzas from " Harley River," in which he ows a nice perception of landscape, but let him not reet that the Poet's best study is Man

Hann by the bridge, and over the dam, The little mill standeth mossed and gray. The gates are up, and the water falls,

We are indicated to a commercial house in this city for the following extract of a letter, dated Chiesanicomico, N. C. Nov. 23, 1848.
You will please report the disaster and total loss of the brig Ponce, Capt. Edwin L. Hall, from Norfolk, bound to floaton, on the night of the 19th inst. at about 94 o'clock, with the loss of the mate and four men, in a beavy gaie from NNE. The brig went to pieces in two hours wher she struck. Myself and one negro man was saved in an exhausted state. I am in a destitute state, having been bruised very badly while on the wreck.
